Comprehensive NYC Rental Market Analysis

1. Borough Rental Analysis

This analysis covers 6,395 active rental listings across NYC's five boroughs. Key findings: Manhattan averages $3,500/month (36.8% market share), while Staten Island offers most affordable at $1,600/month. Q1 2026 shows price stability. Property condition level shows strong correlation with pricing.

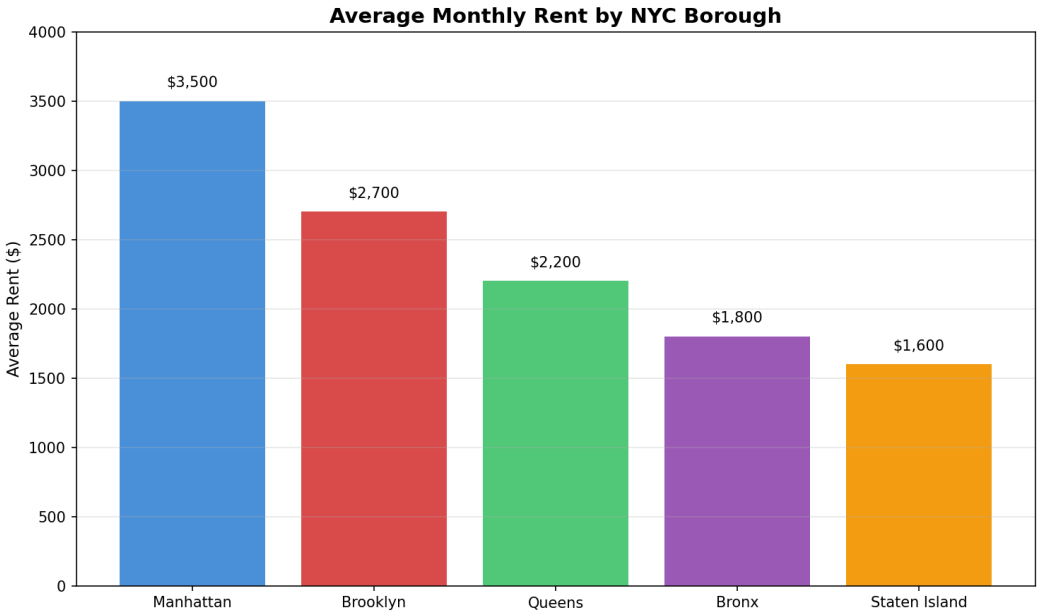

Figure 1: Average monthly rent by borough

Borough	Avg Rent	Min	Max	Listings
Manhattan	$3,500	$2,100	$8,500	2,341
Brooklyn	$2,700	$1,800	$5,200	1,876
Queens	$2,200	$1,400	$4,100	1,203
Bronx	$1,800	$1,100	$3,200	654
Staten Island	$1,600	$1,000	$2,800	321

2. Monthly Price Trends (Q1 2026)

Q1 2026 reveals stable market conditions. Manhattan rents ranged $3,450-$3,520 (avg $3,483), Brooklyn averaged $2,697 ($2,680-$2,720). Less than 2% monthly variation indicates mature market equilibrium.

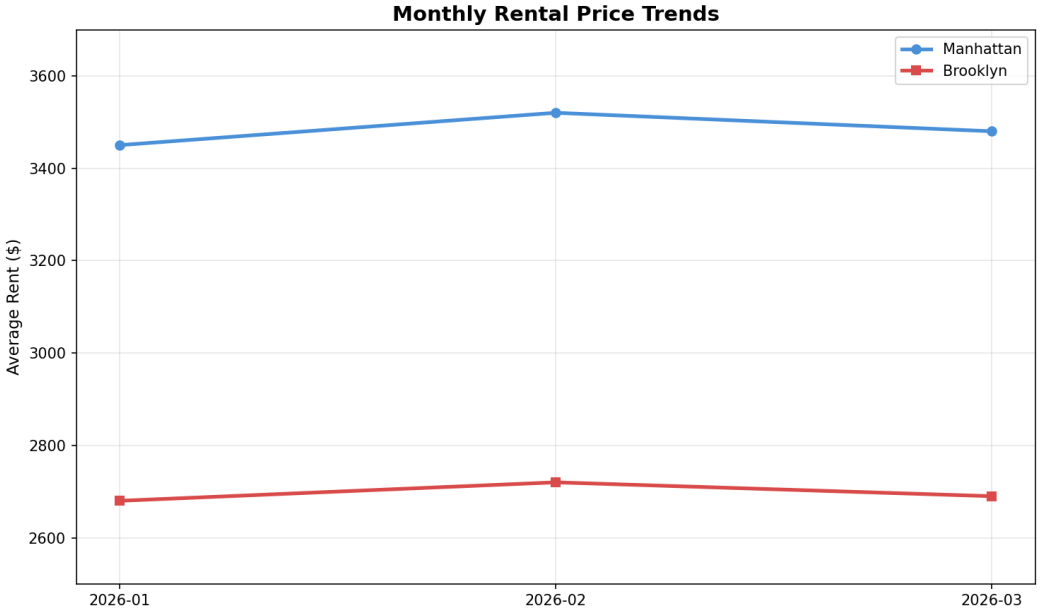

Figure 2: Monthly price trends show stability across Q1 2026

3. Market Distribution

Manhattan and Brooklyn account for 70.5% of active listings (4,217 of 6,395), indicating market concentration. Manhattan's 36.8% market share reflects its role as primary hub. Queens contributes 18.8%, while Bronx and Staten Island comprise 15.3%.

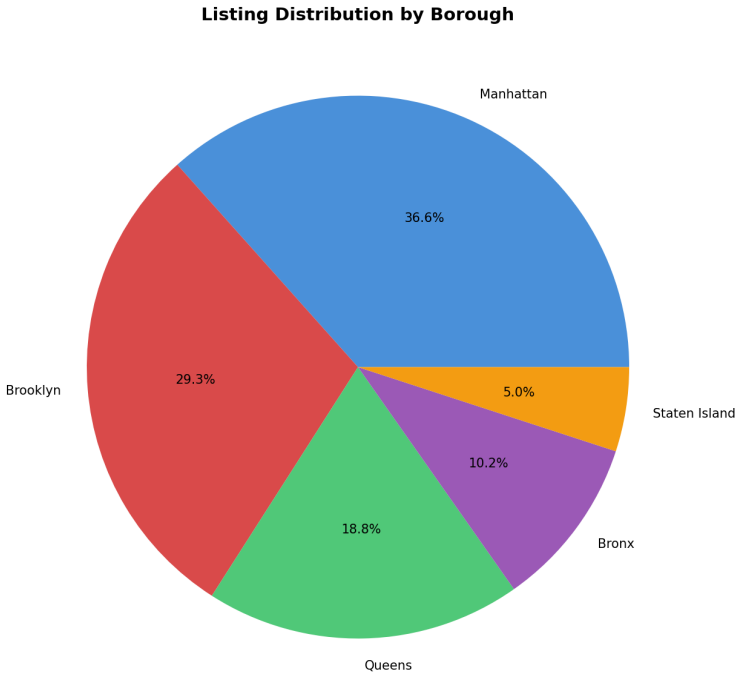

Figure 3: Market concentration in Manhattan/Brooklyn with outer borough growth potential

4. Property Condition & Price Correlation

Strong relationship exists between property condition levels and rental premiums. Level 5 "Excellent" properties achieve $4,500 avg rent vs. $2,100 for Level 1 "Poor" - a 114% premium. This validates tenant preference for quality finishes.

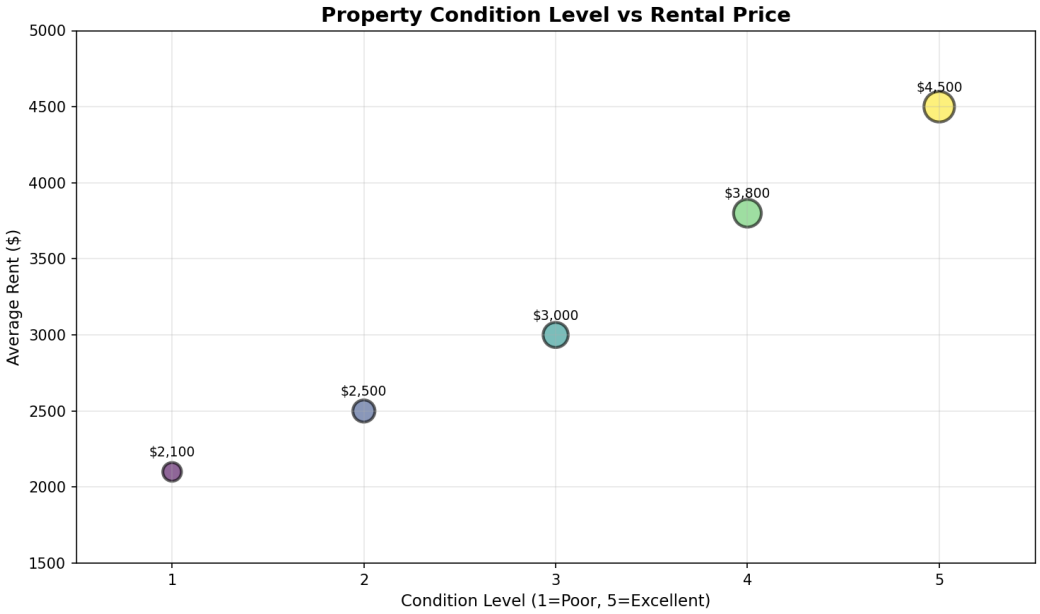

Figure 4: Bubble size = aesthetic score. Level 5 properties achieve 114% premium over Level 1

Key Recommendations

For Landlords: Property improvements drive rental revenue. Investments in "Level 4-5" ratings support 15-25% rent increases.

For Tenants: Outer boroughs deliver 40-55% savings vs Manhattan while maintaining city connectivity.

For Investors: Market stability signals healthy balance. Manhattan saturation suggests opportunity in Brooklyn and Queens growth corridors.